

VICE-CHANCELLOR'S MESSAGE FOR STUDENT DIARY 1986

The start of each new academic year brings new faces to Rhodes University in the ranks of both students and staff. This annual "blood transfusion" is vital to the life of a university because it stimulates new fields of thought and discussion.

A university is an ever-changing organism, but the principles of academic freedom and intellectual discipline and honesty are aspects which remain fundamental to the character of any true university.

I hope that as you expand your horizons, grow in understanding of your particular discipline, acquire flexibility of thought and develop critical and probing minds, you will profit from all that Rhodes has to offer.

Derek S. Henderson

DR D S HENDERSON
VICE-CHANCELLOR

2 December 1985

DRAFT ✓

VICE-CHANCELLOR'S MESSAGE FOR 1985 STUDENT DIARY

X Rhodes University offers its students real opportunities for growth as individuals. Although this includes intellectual discipline and academic achievement, I hope that you will also use your time here to gain an understanding of disciplines other than your own and of people who hold differing viewpoints. Although our main purpose is to send you out into the world with a degree or diploma, we aim also to ensure that you have been challenged to develop a critical faculty which will make you a flexible and innovative member of ^Southern African society.

I wish you well as you embark on the new academic year - may it be both successful and enjoyable.

Dr D S Henderson
VICE-CHANCELLOR

D.S.H

21/11/84

[21. 11. 84]

DRAFT

VICE-CHANCELLOR'S MESSAGE FOR 1985 STUDENT DIARY

Rhodes University offers its students real opportunities for growth as individuals. Although this includes intellectual discipline and academic achievement, I hope that you will also use your time here to gain an understanding of disciplines other than your own and ^{of} people who hold differing viewpoints. Although ~~we exist~~ ^{our main purpose is} to send you out into the world with a degree or diploma, we aim also to ensure that you have been challenged to develop a critical faculty which will make you a flexible and innovative member of southern African society.

Wish you well as you embark on the new academic year - may it be both successful and enjoyable.

Dr D S Henderson

Vice-Chancellor and ~~Principal~~

Caps